

STUDENT SUCCESS INITIATIVE INVENTORY

The first step to optimization is clarity, followed by alignment. Work with department heads to identify all student initiatives, their objectives, targeted populations, and responsible parties. This information will help determine whether there are overlaps in your initiatives and what initiative deserves a “deep dive,” found on page two.

Name of initiative	Initiative overview	Primary objective	Eligible students	Does this initiative overlap with another?	Who / what department is responsible for this?

How do you connect target population to initiative?

What student populations are utilizing this initiative more than others?

OUTCOMES

Quantitative: list quantitative evidence that you're accomplishing your intended outcome(s) (you may need to list on a separate document). Then, rate your level of confidence that these outcomes can be directly linked to the initiative itself.

	Overall population	Target population	Confidence
Student learning			L M H VH
Persistence			L M H VH
Satisfaction			L M H VH
Utilization/Engage			L M H VH
Graduation			L M H VH

What outcomes are you achieving with other subpopulations?

Qualitative: compile any qualitative evidence that you're accomplishing your intended outcome(s).
